

Webinar Series: COVID-19 – Impact to Mental Health and Substance Use Disorder (SUD) Practice

Join us for a two-part series about how COVID-19 is affecting care delivery for Mental Health and SUD Providers

UCare's Mental Health and Substance Use Disorder Department is sponsoring a two-part webinar series about COVID-19 and its impact on Mental Health and SUD providers hosted by Scott Yarosh, M.D. Providers will learn practical tips about care delivery and how to work with clients during the pandemic.

Scott M. Yarosh, M.D. has been in private practice of psychiatry for 25 years. He has been the medical director of Mental Health and SUD at UCare for the past six years. He has 20 years of hospital experience including serving as medical director for various psychiatric inpatient units. Professional interests include mood disorders in adults, psychiatric disorders in medically ill patients, personality disorders as well as forensic psychiatry in several areas. He previously practiced internal medicine prior to embarking on a psychiatry career. Dr Yarosh is double boarded in both Internal Medicine and Psychiatry.

The series will be presented via WebEx at no charge. A certificate of participation and objectives will be provided to attendees.
